MILGARD INTRODUCES NEW TUSCANY™ AND MONTECITO™ WINDOW SERIES
- New series presents ideal features and dimensions to handle all replacement and new construction applications -

TACOMA, Wash. (June 21, 2006) — Milgard Windows & Doors is pleased to introduce the addition of two new double-hung vinyl windows – the Tuscany and Montecito series. Made from Milgard’s own vinyl recipe, both windows are being introduced in the Midwest and Southeast to different audiences.

The Tuscany series is a premium quality, vinyl replacement double-hung window, with the style and beauty of a traditional wood window but without the maintenance headaches. The series was developed to handle all replacement window applications. On the other hand, the Montecito series was designed to handle new construction applications, including attached vinyl exterior trim option to aid vinyl siding installation practices. Both were designed with the ease of installation in mind.

“Vinyl is very popular because of its affordability, versatility and ease of maintenance,” said Pete Placido, director of sales and marketing at Milgard. “Our reputation as vinyl window manufacturers is well known and we are pleased to offer two additional styles to meet the needs of our customers.”

Both double-hung windows are backed by Milgard’s industry-leading full lifetime warranty which covers a homeowner for as long as they own their home – including materials and labor. In addition, both vinyl windows come standard with Milgard’s new SunCoat low-e insulating energy efficiency glass and its exclusive positive action lock so when the window is closed it’s locked. The Tuscany and Montecito series also prove excellent for harsh weather climates and feature even sight lines on the glass and sash frame for a clean, attractive appearance.
